

International Conference on Methods for Surveying and Enumerating Hard-to-Reach Populations (H2R)

New Orleans, Louisiana, USA
October 31-November 3, 2012

Inspiration

- Nancy Bates at U.S. Census Bureau, co-chair
- Sparse survey methods literature on hard-to-reach
- Only 3 relatively small conferences in past 20 years
- Help for survey practitioners

Sponsors

- American Association for Public Opinion Research
- American Statistical Association and its sections on government statistics, survey research methods, and social statistics
- World Association for Public Opinion Research
- Institut für Arbeitsmarkt- und Berufsforschung

Publications in 2013

Invited papers:

- Monograph (“Interviewing the Hard-to-Reach”), to be published by Cambridge in paperback, hardcover, on-line

Contributed papers:

- Journal of Official Statistics
- International Journal of Public Opinion Research

Topics

Identifying, Defining, Measuring H2R

Context: Household Surveys

Techniques and Methodologies

Overcoming language and literacy barriers

HTR Subpopulations

Cross-cultural similarities and differences

Linguistic and cultural minorities

Homeless, refugees, migrants, immigrants...

Schedule

Invited call closes 31 March 2011

Decisions late April

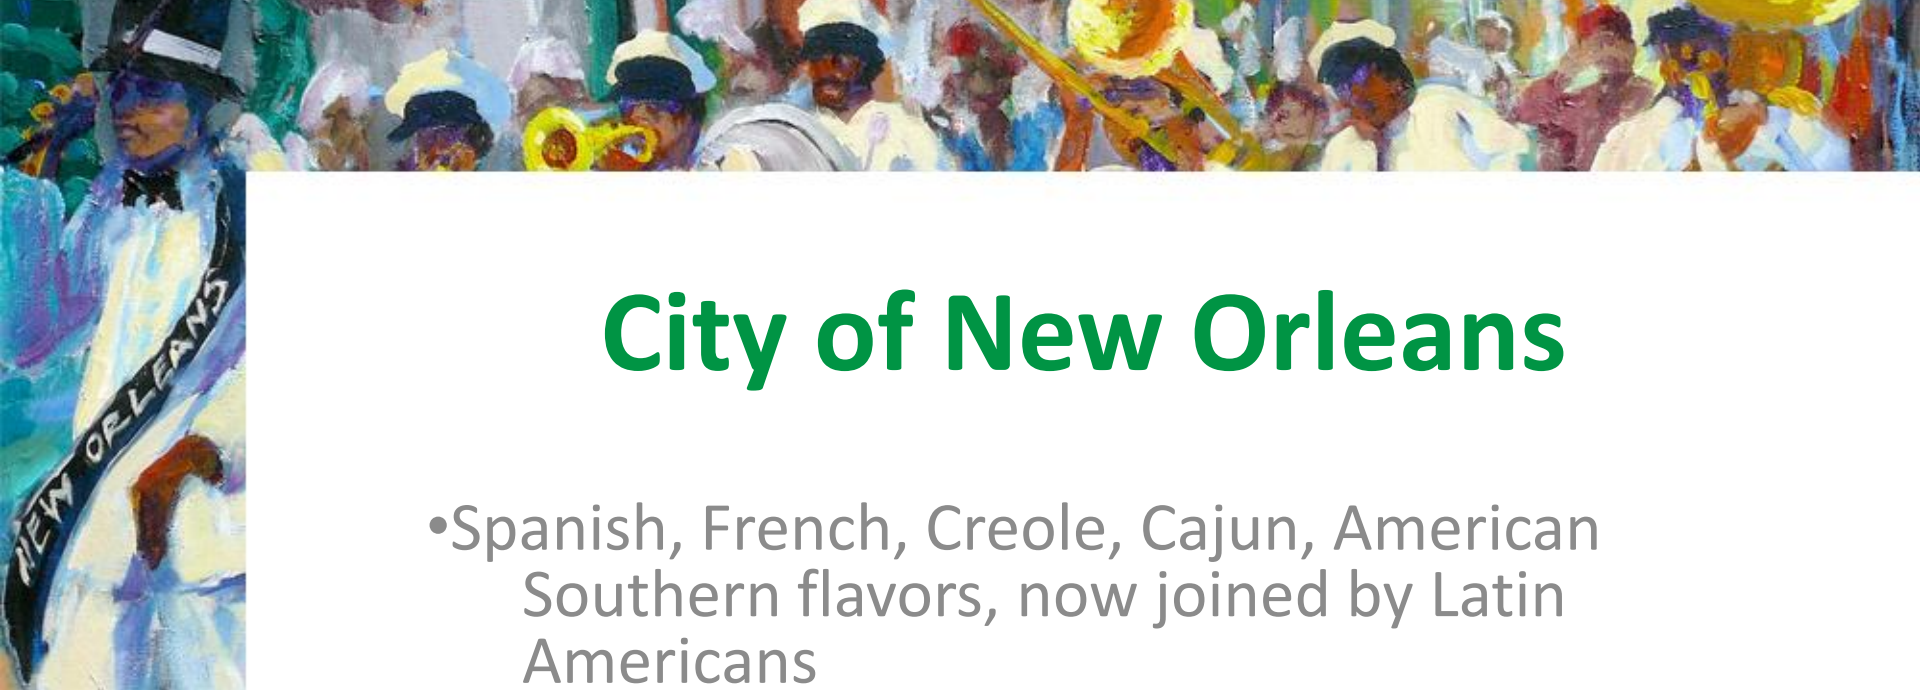

Contributed call 1 April to May 31 2011

Decisions late June

Registration opens August 2012

Short courses 31 October 2012

Conference sessions 1-3 November 2012

City of New Orleans

- Spanish, French, Creole, Cajun, American Southern flavors, now joined by Latin Americans
- One of America's top restaurant cities
- Birthplace of jazz, vibrant music scene today
- Rebuilding after Hurricane Katrina 2005
- Hotel: Marriott at Convention Center, in the Warehouse District, walking distance to French Quarter

www.amstat.org/meetings/h2r/2012

H2R2012@amstat.org

Thanks!

Brad Edwards

bradedwards@westat.com